The Flora Garden Society is a private, not-for-profit organization funded entirely by donations, membership, memorials, grants, and garden tour admissions. It was formed in the early 1950s by citizens interested in promoting a more intimate relationship between the earth and our passion for gardening.

Spring has finally sprung, and you have decided to plant your first garden—but where to begin? That's where Jon Summers comes in. Summers is Flora Garden Society's expert horticulturist, and he's starting off with the basics for what you need to know before you start planting.

It's no secret
Monday April 6, 2016

10:00 am to 6:00 pm

The Flora Garden Society is a private, not-for-profit organization funded entirely by donations, membership, memorials, grants, and garden tour admissions. It was formed in the early 1950s by citizens interested in promoting a more intimate relationship between the earth and our passion for gardening.

Spring has finally sprung, and you have decided to plant your first garden—but where to begin? That's where Jon Summers comes in. Summers is Flora Garden Society's expert horticulturist, and he's starting off with the basics for what you need to know before you start planting.
